Hey John,

It looks like insider dealing–Neima[redacted]being on the FORC board.

Can you comment on this for a follow up piece in CityWatch that I'm working on? I'm on deadline for Wednesday at noon.

About a half hour ago, the Runyon Canyon Defenders group posted this message from Neima Khaila that he is, in his own words, a member of the FORC board. Isn't that you standing with him in the board picture? I'll use the pic in my story. Would you like to identify the others in the frame?

The link is:
https://www.facebook.com/RunyonCanyonDefenders/

While it's not unusual for donors to be board members, an ams length relationship in business transactions and transparency and full disclosure of the relationship is preferable than learning about it from Facebook!

Happy to give you the opportunity to try to get out ahead of this John, but it looks like the Runyon Canyon story is suddenly growing, not settling down.

Please let me know.

Thanks,
Tim

Thank you, Estevan, I hadn't seen this. Will this put an end to the project, and how will things proceed now?

The board of commissioners for department of recreation and parks makes the final decision. This is just a recommendation. You should reach out to FORC.

Yes. Thanks for checking, Estevan. Not sure we'll do anymore though until there's a final meeting/decision.

All my best,

Nita
